ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT

MANKIND, says a Chinese manuscript, for the first seventy thousand ages ate their meat raw, clawing or biting it from the living animal, just as they do in Abyssinia to this day. The manuscript goes on to say, that the art of roasting, or rather broiling (which I take to be the elder brother), was accidentally discovered in the manner following. The swineherd, Ho-ti, having gone out into the woods one morning, as his manner was, to collect mast for his hogs, left his cottage in the care of his eldest son Bo-bo, a great lubberly boy, who being fond of playing with fire, as younkers of his age

Человечество, как говорится в китайской рукописи, в течение первых семидесяти тысяч веков ело мясо сырым, царапая или откусывая его от живых животных, точно так же, как это делают в Абиссинии и по сей день. Далее в рукописи говорится, что искусство жарки или, скорее, жарки на гриле (которое я считаю старшим братом) было случайно открыто следующим образом. Свинопас Хо-ти, отправившись однажды утром в лес, по своему обыкновению, за мачтой для своих свиней, оставил свою хижину на попечение своего старшего сына Бо-бо, большого неуклюжего мальчика, который любил играть с огнем, как юнцы его возраста.
